ACUTE SUFFERING FOLLOWS IN WAKE OF FLOOD, COLD

'ROUND 'N' 'ROUND

Judging by the desire of several of the younger citizens of our community to navigate neighboring puddles, it seems as if youth has lost none of its desire to navigate the ocean blue. This wish for adventure on the bounding main is at present causing the mothers of embryo sailors grave dismay, for it seems as if muddy boots, soaked clothing, and bad colds are necessary requisites of juvenile seamanship.

And up to Truckee they're going to play a baseball game on snowshoes today.

There is one sporting writer in this fair village of ours who is going to run out of adjectives if they don't play that Thomas-San Pablo baseball game pretty soon. Incidentally why not put that stake out on interest until the nines get busy?

Says the Nacogdoches Sentinel of Texas with nary an apology: "There are 50,000 people in Texas who ought to send to a mail order house and get a good nose ring—one that will fit easily into the voting time comes, so the leading process will be easy."

The news columns again remind us that it is dangerous to pick up unknown persons on the highway. If a pedestrian is really in trouble demand him straddle the radiator until you reach civilization. He'll be glad to get to help that way if he really needs it. If he won't ride that way he doesn't need help very much.

Something else for the senate to investigate. Who really is entitled to the heavyweight boxing crown since Gentleman Gene abandoned it. The solons might also suggest some manner to find a proper setting of ivory for that famous crown.

Bad Babies seems to be just as bad in San Francisco as it appeared in the south. After being in the limelight in Los Angeles for several months it was brought to San Francisco. That organization must have an A. No. 1 publicity agent. He's had the cast arrested already—and released on $10 bail.

And it looks like Arthur (The Great) Shires is through with the squared circle. Correspondents state he didn't look so "great" in his recent bout with Judge Lindis.

The bout lasted only three minutes and Shires received the "kayo" from the judge. As he emerged from the chambers of the commissioner, he remarked, "I guess I'll give up the prize ring."

Several embryo "pugs" of the Pacific coast league will also keep their minds on baseball with the report of Landis' sentence.

Gum leggers may start activities in the Irish Free state in the not far distant future. Reports from Dublin state that demands have been made upon the government to ban gum chewing, describing it as a "thoroughly dangerous habit."

William Veale Shadowing Robe

MARTINEZ, Jan. 18.—Under-sheriff William Veale, who in his time has done considerable slouching for other people, is today acting the detective, and trying to find the person who stole a $50 auto robe from his car.

The theft occurred while Veale had his machine parked on a downtown Oakland street Thursday night.

FUNDS VOTED FOR PROH FORCES

WASHINGTON, Jan. 18.—(U.P.)—Drys in the House of Representatives were triumphant tonight after a session in which they had checked one after another, a series of assaults by the little group of militant wets upon the Eighteenth amendment and the $15,000,000 appropriation for the prohibition enforcement bureau.

After turning back repeated attacks in a noisy House session, dries calmly and confidently rolled up their votes to approve the $15,000,000 recommended by the treasury for enforcement.

Subsequently the House passed the treasury postoffice department appropriation bill which contained, besides this $15,000,000 for the prohibition bureau, approximately $16,000,000 for the coast guard, and $2,000,000 for the customs service both agencies engaged in prohibition enforcement. The measure, which also carries funds for all post office facilities was passed with no important amendments. There was no record vote.

Validity Attacked
It all started when Representative La Guardia, republican, New York, a fiery wet, challenged the appropriation for prohibition enforcement on the technical ground that the states had ratified only the resolution passed by Congress containing the eighteenth amendment and had not ratified the amendment itself. He contended the states would have to ratify all over again.

An amendment by Representative Black, Democrat, New York, to prevent expenditure of $50,000 for the prohibition bureau's "educational campaign" was shouted down without a record vote.

An amendment was made by La Guardia to increase the prohibition bureau's appropriation from $15,000,000 to $300,000,000. It also was shouted down, the New Yorker alone voting for it.

An amendment was presented by Representative Sabath, republican, Illinois, to prevent dry agents from purchasing liquor with government money for use as evidence.

JUDGE FACES MURDER JURY

AUSTIN, Tex., Jan. 18.—UP—Under the shadows of the capitol Hall of Justice where he once occupied the bench of a high court, John W. Brady will appear in court Monday to defend himself against a charge of murder.

He is accused of slaying Lela Highsmith with a knife and wounding her fatally because she spurned him. Brady had become infatuated with the young woman when she served as a stenographer for the State Supreme Court.

Brady was expected to plead the crime was done while he was suffering from dementia.

The accused man is a former judge of the State Appellate court, a former assistant Attorney General, once served as counsel for the state banking department.

Miss Highsmith succumbed to three severe knife wounds on the night of last November 9. Brady was arrested at the scene of the crime.

Mother Kills Tot Attempts Suicide

HORTON, Kas., Jan. 18.—UP—Mrs. Carl Finger lay in a hospital here tonight hoping she would die. She had killed one of her daughters, 7, and critically wounded another, 9, by slaying their throats with a razor. She then attempted suicide by the same method. She has a slight chance to live.

Mary In Court

MARY PICKFORD in Los Angeles probate court during a hearing over $38,000 inheritance tax levied against estate of her late mother, Mrs. Charlotte Pickford-Smith. She wants the tax set aside because trust fund taxed was her own earnings.

FLIERS HUNT LOST PILOT

LAS VEGAS, Nev., Jan. 18.—UP—More than 40 airplanes were engaged in today's hunt for Maury Graham, missing Western Air Express pilot, but no trace of the flier or his air mail plane was found.

Graham took off from Las Vegas for Salt Lake a week ago last Friday night in the face of a severe snow storm and has not been seen since.

Searchers included volunteer civilian fliers, aviators of the Western Air Express and members of the Army and Navy flying corps.

It was believed that the only chance that Graham had survived was the possibility that he landed and found refuge with some isolated tribe of Indians.

Heavy snows over the little traveled country where it was thought the aviator may have been forced down handicapped the search.

Graham was an experienced air mail pilot. He received his early training in the World war and was leader of the squadron that located the famous Lost Battalion.

MARRIAGE LICENSES

Ernest L. Joiner, 26, of Richmond, and Reita M. Olsen, 18, of Berkeley, were yesterday issued a marriage license in Oakland.

A marriage license was issued in Oakland yesterday to Joseph Pecarich, 22, of Richmond, and Ruth Brown, 21, of Oakland.

EVERETT HARD HIT AS WATER SUPPLY FAILS

EVERETT, Wash., Jan. 18.—(U.P.)—Without water and with city plants and many private residences unable to obtain heat because of water shortage, Everett faced a serious situation tonight.

Freezing of pipes bringing water to the city resulted in complete drying up of the city reservoir early this evening and installation of emergency pumps was not expected to be completed before midnight.

It was forecast that for at least five hours the city would be completely without water.

Mills shut down Friday when the situation developed and only one school was open that day.

Approximately 3800 men were idle as a result of the shutdown and all unessential activity in the city was at a standstill.

Places of amusement were expected to be warm and open to night, as a result a record Saturday evening was anticipated.

Thousands of residents were forced from their homes and apartments by lack of steam heat and were compelled to seek warmth in motion picture shows and other places.

Two fire engines with pumping facilities were on hand to guard against the peril of fire while the water system was shut down.

MARRIAGE LICENSE

Carl W. Black, 27 of 331 Chanslor avenue Richmond, and Mabel S. Wilson, 32 of Berkeley, applied for a marriage license in San Jose this week. Black is an employee of the local Standard Oil company.

COUNTY SCOUT COUNCIL NAMES OFFICERS AT DINNER MEETING

J. D. Keith of Crockett, was re-elected president of the Contra Costa county council of Boy Scouts last night at a dinner meeting in the Memorial hall.

Keith was re-elected by a unanimous vote of the council at its annual session.

Other officers elected were E. W. Moyer, Concord, W. S. Poage, Richmond, and W. H. Evans of El Cerrito vice-presidents; H. A. McMahon of Pittsburg, treasurer and A. B. McKendrick of executive, was one of the speakers.

The board include George Murayrers of Concord and Thomas D. Swift of Martinez.

More than 300 persons attended the meeting, which was one of the most successful held by the council.

SIX PERSONS INJURED IN CRASH

El Cerrito police were last night hunting an alleged hit run street car motorman, while six persons were recovering from injuries received when the street car is alleged to have plowed into their overturned automobile at Eureka and San Pablo avenues, El Cerrito.

Key System officials announced last night that the motorman of the car No. 236, which is reported to have figured in the crash is Frank Nolan. El Cerrito officers were seeking Nolan last night after he is reported to have fled from an officer who had placed him in his car following the accident.

Drinking Charged
Officers charged that Nolan had been drinking, while officials of the Key System stated that their investigation also disclosed that the motorman had been drinking.

Those injured are: John M. Stroble, 35, Benicia, cuts and bruises one ear badly injured; his wife 23, cuts and bruises; Mrs. A. J. Davis, 23, Benicia, cuts and bruises; Mrs. Davis' seven months old son, Allan Wayne, shaken up and bruised.

Jac Bessie, 11, Benicia, sprained ankle, cuts and bruises, a cousin of Mrs. Davis; and C. R. Lehmkuhl of Pinole. The injured were taken to the Humboldt hospital in Albany.

According to a report from the El Cerrito police department Stroble at the wheel of his sedan had turned off Eureka avenue onto San Pablo avenue and was heading south. His car skidded and overturned on the northbound street car track. A street car driven by Nolan heading north is then reported to have plowed into the Stroble car.

Nolan Escapes
Officers were called to the scene and according to the police report an empty bottle was found in Nolan's possession. Howard Thullen, El Cerrito traffic officer placed Nolan in his car and the officers' attention was momentarily distracted by a question from Mrs. Davis regarding the condition of her son. Nolan is then reported to have left the officer's car and struck out across vacant lots with Officer Thullen in pursuit.

Nolan made good his escape, but officers expected to apprehend him within a short time.

Key Route officials last night stated that another automobile had forced the Stroble car to overturn on the street car track and that the motorman did not have a chance to stop his car. Reports given to the El Cerrito police, however, contended that the street car was about a block away when the Stroble car overturned.

Deputy Constable Chester S. Hubbard of Alameda county, who was near the scene of the crash, stated last night that in his estimation the street car had plenty of distance in which to stop before hitting the auto.

Death Asked For Chicago Slayer

CHICAGO, Jan. 18.—UP—The fate of Samuel Howard Dorr, charged with the murder of his sweethearts husband, was placed in the hands of a jury at 3:45 p. m. today, the state's plea for the death penalty ringing in the ears of the 12 men as they filed from the box.

Harry S. Pittchurn, assistant state's attorney, closed the case with a last demand that Dorr pay the penalty in Cook county's new electric chair.

The dapper insurance salesman palled at the demand and Mrs. Dorr, who defended her husband throughout the trial, was near collapse.

Richmond Leading In Phone Increase

The current issue of the monthly magazine of the Pacific Telephone and Telegraph company, just issued, contains some very interesting information relating to Contra Costa county, and particularly Richmond, and their growth.

The table of the installation of telephones in the different towns in the county in the past year shows a steady increase, and is evidence of the continued steady growth of the county.

So far as the state is concerned, there are only 13 cities that have a larger telephone list than Richmond. If you eliminate San Francisco, Oakland, Los Angeles, Sacramento, Stockton, San Jose and San Diego out of the list, as they are all cities of much larger population, and should not be used for comparative purposes, Richmond would stand seventh, which gives an idea of the standing in California, so far as municipalities are concerned. Richmond's gain in telephones during the past 12 months was 539.

There is not a town in the county that shows a loss in the number of telephones in 1929.

The towns of Contra Costa, and the number of telephones in each, which is a clear index to population, are as follows:

Richmond	4734
Martinez	1552
Pittsburg	1133
Crockett	831
Antioch	570
Concord	525
Walnut Creek	426

Gas Blast Wrecks Store; Three Hurt

BERKELEY, Jan. 18.—Three persons were seriously injured today when an explosion wrecked the front of the "Tuscanian Brothers" Oriental Rug store at 2998 College avenue.

The injured were Charles W. Darling, 60, 625 Thirty-fourth street, Oakland, severe lacerations and bruises; Mrs. Margaret Thomas, 47, of 3140 College avenue, shock and scalp wounds, and Gwyneth 12 year old daughter of Mrs. Thomas, cuts and bruises.

Darling, a Hitchcock special patrolman, told police he had just sketched on the lights at the front of the store when a heavy roar, accompanied by a blinding flash, sent him rolling into the street.

Mrs. Thomas and her daughter, who were some distance from the store, were thrown to the street.

The injured were treated at the Alta Bates hospital where they were confined.

Police and firemen declared that they believed the explosion was due to a gas leak. The fumes are believed to have accumulated in the store and in some manner when Darling pressed the switch a spark resulted that ignited the fumes.

Battle Looms Over Bay Water Supply

SACRAMENTO, Jan. 18.—With the filing of an application by Martin Judge, Jr., of San Francisco for permission to store 175,000 acre feet of water in Indian valley for industries on San Pablo and Suisun bays, a battle over the waters of Cache creek in Yolo and Lake counties loomed here today.

The application is in direct conflict with one made by Earl B. Breaime, who proposed to supply domestic water to Vacaville, Suisun, Fairfield, Benicia, Martinez and Pittsburg.

An application by Neale, Supple and Kelly, is also pending, proposing storage in Capay valley for a Sacramento municipal water supply.

According to Judge, his primary purpose in the project, is to provide industrial water supply to Contra Costa county, embracing the industrial area of Pittsburg and reaching as far as Solano county.

Rancher Dies From Hemorrhage Of Lung

Manuel Caldeira, 38, yesterday died from hemorrhage of the lung, at his ranch in back of the Tank Hill Farm.

According to his wife, Mrs. Minnie Caldeira he came home from work about noon. After eating a lunch which she had prepared he lay down on a couch to rest.

Going about her household work Mrs. Caldeira suddenly noticed that her husband was having a struggle to breathe. Looking closer, she discerned blood about his mouth. In a few moments, his face turned black, and breathing stopped.

Mrs. Caldeira, terrified ran to a neighbors house to obtain aid. E. P. Fitzgerald, a neighbor, came to her assistance, and discovered Caldeira dead.

The coroner's office was notified, and an investigation made. Death according to physicians, was due to hemorrhage of the lung.

Caldeira is survived by his wife two sons ages six and three, of Pinole, and a mother in Portugal.

Funeral services are pending in the hands of Wilson and Kratzer parlors.

Child Near Death After Dog Attack

EL PASO, Tex., Jan. 18.—(U.P.)—Robert Crow, six, was so badly bitten by a pack of dogs near here today that he was not expected to live.

The little fellow was attacked by the dogs as he passed a pen where they were confined. They jumped the fence and pounced on him and his brothers, James, 11, and Jack, 8.

One ear of the child was torn off and the other was bitten to shreds. His face was badly lacerated. Neighbors ran to the child's aid and beat the dogs off.

The two brothers got loose from the dogs and ran for help after being bitten. The pack then concentrated its attack on Robert, pinning him down in a fence corner.

MANY LEFT WITHOUT HOMES

CHICAGO, Jan. 18.—UP—Winter loosed its coldest blast of the year today in the midwest bowl between the Rockies and the Appalachians and then whistled eastward in tempered form.

It left acute suffering, demoralized communications, blocked traffic and ice encrusted flood areas. With it the blast carried snow that stung rescue workers to greater efforts as they pierced snowbound canyons to reach marooned travelers and braved ice cakes to take food and fire to isolated flood victims.

Sub-Zero Weather
Sub-zero temperatures ranged from the Montana Rockies to the eastern edge of the Great Lakes, from the Canadian border to the sunny winter play grounds of the south.

Falling temperatures heralded the cold wave into the western seaboard region, where zero or lower for the week-end was forecast in the latitude of Pittsburgh and only slightly higher marks further east.

Stories of heroism and tragedy came out of the flooded areas of Indiana and Arkansas today, some of them over telephone lines patched up across the frozen lakes.

Calls For Aid

From Orville, Ind., came a plea for medical aid for two ill children, trapped in their home by the flood. Their father, Charles Thompson, finally got a call thru on a makeshift wire, but there was little hope for immediate aid, with the mercury registering 12 degrees below zero and rescue boats frozen fast to their wharves. It was feared they were short of food and warmth as many were forced to second stories by a levee break yesterday that inundated a whole township.

Freedom—But Not Until It Hurts

ONCE upon a time there was a clever, good-looking, charming young man of Manhattan named Toby. Only twenty-six years old and tremendously in love with life—Also tremendously in love with Ann, the young woman he married. Ann was a little person, with a very red mouth in a dewy white face. She had a straight, short little nose. A model chin, pointed yet soft. And dark curling lashes, which Toby thought were probably the longest in the world. Ann was clever, too, as well as good to look upon. She had a writing job, at which she earned as much money as her young husband. And out of which she "got a tremendous kick," as she would have said. Plus a good foundation for certain definite and soaring ambitions. When the two married, it was understood from the beginning that Ann would continue to do her own work and earn money by it. Toby vowed, when he proposed, that he "wouldn't be jealous."

"Or domineering," he added. "I wouldn't try to run your life for you. I believe in individuals, Ann. You're one—if there ever was one—and I'd respect that. Always. I'd respect your work, and your time, and your right to do as you chose. If you felt like keeping your job, you could. If you didn't, you wouldn't need to. I wouldn't want you to cook, or clean, or grub around with house-keeping. But if you craved that sort of thing, you could have it. You'd be free, so you see? Free as you are now." And so they were married. And, on the honeymoon, Ann framed another formula for the new matrimonial freedom. She announced that both she and her husband should have "dates." "Married people," she told Toby, "ought to go out sometimes with other people. Separately, I mean. They ought to have dates. It's an intelligent precautionary measure. If you can take some other girl to dinner whenever you want to—With my full knowledge and consent—You won't feel nearly so much like seeing her without it. And the same applies to me, with some other man." So they agreed on that, and they agreed. Always to tell each other everything. And always to trust each other, never to be suspicious. When they came home from Atlantic City and moved into their own apartment. Everything went beautifully at first. They were terribly in love and terribly happy, finding happiness in the smallest things. There were, on the other hand, small interruptions. Toby's secret regret, when he had to leave town on a business trip. That Ann couldn't go with him, because she had a job from which she couldn't run away. Ann's frank dismay, when the first month's bills arrived. And she found that Toby could neither pay them himself. Nor would permit her to pay them, "even as a loan." Toby's uncomfortable moment, when he discovered that Ann was or soon would be making more money than he had earned, up to that time. All these details, however, were being worked out to a sensible and happy adjustment. When Toby kept a date with a Gilded Child named Puff. Puff was very nice, but she thought Toby was a little bit old. She had all the tricks in the world. And all the unscrupulousness in the world about using them. On any man about whom she became "amused," whether he was married or single. Ann was going out to dine and dance with a college boy. Toby benevolently refused to be the third in the party. And frankly suggested that he call up Puff and ask her to dinner. Which he did, with Ann's enthusiastic encouragement. The trouble began when Puff, in her innocent girlish way, said that she'd meet him at his apartment. Which she did, and they imbibed highballs and Toby found out that Puff could play the piano marvelously. And, before they left for dinner, she practically invited him to kiss her. And jeered at him when she chivalrously refused. And then, of course, he refrained no longer. And—well, the evening and the highballs and the kisses had just begun. "Did you kiss her?" Ann asked the next morning. For she was asking a number of cool clipped questions. She was, as she said, ruefully, "making noises like a wife." But she could not help it. She had to know about last night, all about it. She had to ask these questions, and she seemed, in spite of herself, To have to ask them sharply, suspiciously like a wife. She was very unhappy, and Toby was utterly wretched. You see, Puff had made Toby forget to come home till morning. They had been night-clubbing around until then. And when Toby did come home he was frankly intoxicated. But he admitted numerous kisses, and Ann was utterly wretched. The conclusion—as you'll find if you read this absorbing story of young love trying to be modern and free. As Katharine Brush tells it in her newly-published book, "Young Man of Manhattan."

"I don't think," his young wife insisted, "that married people ought to have dates." "It's a good theory. It's only when one of them sort of—oh, betrays the other's trust—that it doesn't work out. I'd have been all right about it, if you'd just gone out, and dined, and danced, and—been yourself." But she didn't want him to want to kiss any one else. And there, it seems to us, you are, with the new matrimonial freedom. It's sensible and intelligent and workable, as long as it applies to conventions and not to real values. But no woman in love with a man can help being hurt when he plays at love with another woman. It's all right to give freedom in marriage, but not to take it till it hurts. Complete trust on the one hand implies complete loyalty on the other. For of marriage, as of nothing else in the world, is the paradox true. That "only the free are bond, and only the bond are free."

Your Children's Friends

ELIZABETH ANN is attractive as well as talented, so she has become very popular in the social affairs of high school. She gradually drifted into the gayest set and became a worrisome problem to her mother, but, being endowed with good sense, this woman did not lay down the law to her daughter nor make her home life unpleasant by unwise references to her companions. She urged her unsuspecting girls to bring her friends to the house. She arranged entertainments for them, they danced and sang and she gave them delightful suppers, so all the young people became quite free and easy in her presence and her home became a favorite rendezvous for "the gang." She often discussed the different boys and girls with Elizabeth Ann, their behavior and character in particular. This woman had a way of drawing out young folks and she showed this set up in their worst light, especially the one lad who was too attentive to Elizabeth Ann. In an unbelievably short time the daughter remarked, "Somehow the more I see of 'the gang' the less I like them. And I can't find a word to say about them. I don't see what has made them change so." That was a year ago and now Elizabeth Ann travels in an entirely different set and this was accomplished without any unpleasant discussions or any sharp remarks about picking out decent companions. And so this wise mother continues to weed her daughter's garden of friendships without Elizabeth Ann being at all aware of it.

The Farmer's Advice

By Alfalfa Smith

THESE are the days when we should be seeing visions, for "my people, having no vision, perish." This reminds me of what are called the discouraging days of 1777, when Washington was encamped with his army at Valley Forge. A vision came to him. While he was on his knees in prayer asking to be shown what was the right thing to do, a light shone round about him and a vision of a broad and prosperous country spread out before him. He recognized it as the future United States. This little story should make you resolve to do more than you have been doing during 1930 and prove conclusively that there is no room for discouragement in these United States.

Hoover Sets Precedent by Allowing Under Secretary of State Cotton and Assistant Secretary of Navy Jahneke at Cabinet Meetings

Two new faces appear at the President's Cabinet table. Their presence does not mean two new Cabinet officers. It does announce another Hoover novelty, a departure from precedent.

Joseph P. Cotton, Under Secretary of State, will sit at the head of the Cabinet group at the President's right. Commander Ernest Lee Jahneke, the Assistant Secretary of the Navy, will be there.

The one is to be the Acting Secretary of State and the other the Acting Secretary of the Navy for three or four months while Secretary of State Stimson and Secretary of the Navy Adams are in London attending the Conference on Naval Armaments.

Other Presidents have kept in contact with departmental matters through acting heads of departments in the absence of Cabinet officers from Washington. Mr. Hoover is believed to be the first to invite temporary Secretaries to join his official family.

The President is quite fond personally of both "Joe" Cotton and Commander Jahneke. He is pleased to honor them through this neat little tribute. The Hoovers have included Cotton and Jahneke at numerous official functions at the White House where ordinarily the list would not drop below Cabinet rank. Both men were included in all of the conferences preparatory to the arrival of Prime Minister MacDonald of Great Britain and to the departure of the American delegation to London.

Commander Jahneke is from New Orleans and has made friends so rapidly in Washington, some of the more ardent of them are hoping that after the London Conference, Charles Francis Adams might wish to return to Boston and this Harvard trustee.

NEW RADIO RIVALRY
Rivalry between the two major radio broadcasting companies took a new turn this week.

In co-operation with the League of Women Voters, the National Broadcasting Company was arranging for a series of talks by the diplomatic representatives of the leading nations. Its officers had been working on the project for some weeks.

The Columbia chain is reported to have heard of it and to have "copped" the idea. Whatever the truth of that, it is a fact that the C. B. S. has announced a series of fifty-four talks by Ambassadors and Ministers to be given

The Steel Soldier

Stalin's fiftieth birthday, just celebrated in Moscow, was more of an apotheosis than a mere jubilee. The entire phalanx of the Soviet press is given over to singing "this steel soldier's" praises. There has been nothing like it since Lenin's death. This "Hardcore Bolshevik" has become the touchstone of revolutionary orthodoxy. Lenin's spiritual successor and, like him, virtually infallible, says one report. To underline the spiritual unity, this political entity, photograph after photograph is reproduced showing Lenin sitting in intimate, affectionate conversation alone with Stalin, like a master with his favorite disciple. Others show Stalin, now leader, in equally close association with his lieutenant, Molotov. Column after column of biography shows this "man of steel" from his school days onward always a fighter, always taking a strong line against opportunists, dilute politicians, time-servers of all sorts; in pre-revolutionary days taking, as it were, in advance the "real party line" of to-day. His life story is an impressively brave one. This THIRTY-cobble's son, Joseph Jughashvili, trained for priesthood, but already in seminary joining the secret Red ring, then immediately entering that seventeen years' stretch of tireless underground organizing activity, which was the best possible training for his present mastery of all the secret workings of the party machine. Under half a dozen aliases, David, Koba, Nijeradz, Chikof, Ivanovich, finally Stalin, he conspired and organized the building up of that secret machine. Seven times he was arrested and deported to Siberia. With the help of his organization he always promptly escaped and, although he sat many months in the prison on remand, he had the luck never to get sentenced to penal servitude.

Peasant Doings

A curious story comes from Karabak in Central Anatolia. The village is situated in the neighborhood of Konia, the ancient Iconium. The largest and finest house in it belonged to Murat, a merchant. Ishak, the hodja, was his enemy. One fine morning Ishak declared to the peasants that Allah had ordered him to demolish the merchant's house, under the foundations of which there was a plan with the exact description of a spot where an immense treasure was buried. Without any hesitation the peasants seized their axes and mattocks, and in a few hours the once beautiful house was completely pulled down. No one of them was more eager in the work of destruction than was the hodja himself. The merchant, however, was not slow in taking action, and a force of gendarmes came riding at full gallop to Karabak. Meantime, most of the peasants had returned to their homes, so only the hodja and a few of the villagers could be arrested and taken to Konia. Following the cross-examination, the gendarmes returned to the village and arrested some fifty other persons, so that about half of the inhabitants of Karabak are likely to sit in prison at Konia. The hodja is said to be endeavoring to give the impression of madness. (Copyright 1930)

Lips That Lure

NOW is the season of fever blisters and chapped lips, when the best lipstick seems to lose its magic and the bad or indifferent lipstick is more than ordinarily unsafe.

For fever blister cases and severe doses of chapped lips, we take pleasure in publishing the following two recipes. Recipes that are remarkably effective, reasonably easy to prepare and not at all expensive.

To Correct Fever Blisters
Mix together two ounces of sweet spirits of nitre and two ounces of spirits of camphor.

Apply the lotion to the blistered area at intervals of a half hour. To prevent recurrence of the ugly and uncomfortable ailment, watch your diet! The roots of these ugly little flowers called cold sores or fever blisters are to be found in the tummy, or, to be precise, in a disturbed digestive tract.

Lotion for Chapped Lips (and Skin)
Sweet Almond Oil ..... 1 oz.
Pure Glycerine ..... 1 oz.
Witchhazel ..... 4 oz.
Spirits of Camphor ..... 1 oz.

Mix the above ingredients together thoroughly and bottle. Smooth the lotion over the lips or other chapped surface as often as convenient.

In chill weather the lips should be anointed with the mixture regularly on going out of doors and returning to the hearth. A habit which, by the way, has preventive as well as corrective benefits to recommend it.

Codification of International Law, to be held at The Hague beginning March 30, 1930.

The International Congresses of Medicine and Pharmacy, to be held at Budapest.

The Inter-American Conference on Agriculture, Forestry and Animal Industry, to be held at Washington, beginning Sept. 2, 1930.

The Inter-American Congress of Rectors, Deans and Educators in General, to be held at Havana on Feb. 20, 1930.

There are others. An appropriation of $50,000 is asked for the international law conference at The Hague, at which the subjects to be considered will include "dual nationality," "territorial waters" and "responsibility of states for damage caused in their territory to the person or property of foreigners."

The Association of Military Surgeons is eager to have the United States represented at the conference in Budapest and an appropriation of $10,000 is asked to cover expenses. This country has not participated in the congresses initiated by the King of the Belgians in 1921. Participation was recommended by the President in 1927 and 1929, but the United States was not represented at Warsaw nor London, due to the failure of Congress to act.

The sum of $25,000 is requested for the conference on agriculture, forestry and animal industry to hold a conference sponsored by the Pan-American Union to discuss three major topics, the most important of which would be "to define the outstanding problems in the several countries which may be solved by co-operation."

The purpose of the proposed Inter-American Congress of Deans, Rectors and Educators will be the organization of an inter-American institute of intellectual co-operation to have for its immediate aims, according to Secretary of State Stimson, "the stimulation and systematizing of the exchange of professors and students, the promotion in the secondary and superior schools of all the American countries, of the creation of special chairs of history, geography, literature, sociology, hygiene and law, principally constitutional and commercial law; and, to favor the creation of a university town or students' home in the countries of America."

Sharpening the Scissors

SCISSORS in good working condition should always be sharp, due to the constant friction of the two blades. However, if thick paper, twine or other things of particular thickness have been cut by the shears, the controlling centre screw is loosened and the blades cannot make sufficient contact to continually sharpen themselves.

An easy hammering over the centre pivot will tend to bring the two blades closer together and may adjust the set of scissors.

Care of House Plants

When it is necessary to open windows for airing plants in the room should be removed—the change in temperature may stunt their growth and may kill the plants.

LOUDER AND MORE FUNERALS

D. R. FOSTER KENNEDY of Cornell Medical College announces that many middle-aged men drop dead because of noise. The incessant clatter of modern day civilization sends many others to their graves. That is an idea worth playing with. When your wife's relatives come visiting, you can always install a baby grand piano.

The Cornell medical reports that in experimenting with a group of rodents, those rodents living in an ordinary city environment showed an energy and tissue loss of 17 per cent, more than rodents confined to sound-proof cubicles. That's something to ponder on. And while we think of it, we should think our rodents would get sick and tired of being experimented on for the benefit of the American public when they are entitled to just as much fun as our flesh, fish and fowl as well as our flora and fauna.

However, that doesn't destroy the doctor's argument that noise actually kills. He is undoubtedly right. Come to think of it, last year no less than 412,000 persons died within two seconds after hearing the shrill blast of motor horns. The noise of a locomotive crashing a seven-passenger sedan has also done away with quite a few persons.

For years the lethal effect of noise has been established, but no one ever thought of bringing up the subject. If you will delve into the statistics you will find that in 1929 at least 3,570 other persons died as a result of noise. Although Coroners pronounced these deaths due to murder, all the neighbors knew they were caused by leaving the radio on too late at night.

The slightest noise will suffice to kill some high-strung people. Like the fellow who was calling on his sweetie when he heard her husband tip-toe into the front hall. It was that noise which killed him, although the ambulance crew attributed it to a twelve-story jump. Noise is very distracting to some people, although personally nothing drives us so completely crazy as the mere thought of a cupful of thick gravy being poured down the back of our neck on a warm summer's day. However, each man to his taste in disturbances.

If noise does kill, though, look at the sad plight of the woodpecker. The minute he starts plying his trade, he is committing suicide. A cricket's life isn't so healthy, either, if noise will blot him out. We never gave the matter deep thought before, but if noise is as fatal as the doctor claims it is, broken tire chains have probably killed more motorists than carbon monoxide gas. Half the deaths at sea you read about aren't due to the causes ascribed to them, but come from listening to foghorns. And being ticket taker in a roller skating rink must be a hazardous profession, too.

You saw in the papers recently that 1,278 persons died as a result of parties on New Year's Eve. The W. O. T. U. will probably claim it was the noise that killed them. But if the Cornell expert's theory is correct, we look for changes at local ball games next season. The stands will yell louder than ever before in the hope they can kill the cheer leaders.

Lesson Subject

"Life" is the subject of the Lesson—Sermon today in all Churches of Christ. Scientist, branches of the Mother Church, The First Church of Christ, Scientist, in Boston, Mass.

The citations which comprise the Lesson-Sermon include the following from the Bible: "For since the beginning of the world men have not heard, nor perceived by the ear, neither hath the eye seen, O God, beside thee, what he hath prepared for him that waiteth for him"—Isa. 64-4.

The Lesson-Sermon also includes the following passage from the Christian Science textbook: "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures," by Mary Baker Eddy: "The measurement of life by solar years robs youth and gives silliness to age. The radiant sun of virtue and truth coexists with being. Manhood is its eternal noon, undimmed by a declining sun. Time tables of birth and death are so many conspiracies against manhood and womanhood. Life and goodness are immortal. Let us then shape our views of existence into loveless freshness and continuity, rather than into age and blight."

SCHOOL PUPILS OF STATE THRIFTY

SACRAMENTO, Jan. 17—(U.P.)—California school children are learning the lesson of thrift. Two out of every three pupils in this state have school savings accounts.

Of a total bank balance this year of $50,073,667 in all school savings banks of the United States, California shows a total balance of $6,138,572. Only two other states, New York and Pennsylvania, exceed California in its total.

These facts were revealed in a report to Gov. C. C. Young by Will C. Wood, state superintendent of banks, just before Wood departed for a vacation trip to South America on leave of absence.

"In many ways California's record shows that the fundamental idea of thrift has taken a firmer hold here than in other larger and wealthier states," Wood said. "While collections are larger in other states, the withdrawals are also heavy."

In point of amounts retained on deposit, California ranks second with a total of $976,632, being exceeded only by New York. In total interest credited—the best example of the continuity of the individual account—California stands ahead of both New York and Pennsylvania.

The average amount kept on deposit per pupil in California is $11.18, as compared to $11.85 for the nation at large, the report showed.

Idea New
Back in 1921-23, when the school savings idea originated, there were 58,118 pupils of the 171,103 in California to whom the system was available who had savings accounts. This was approximately one pupil out of every three. The average account per pupil was $11.93.

The following year, 88,619 pupils out of the 219,637—or two out of every five—had school savings accounts. The average account per pupil was $9.21.

Today, however, with nearly two out of every three pupils enrolled in saving money for the future, the average account is $16.13, and 352,460 pupils are participating. From less than three-quarters of a million dollars in 1923, the total savings in this state is now more

No Damages For Careless Walker Rules Court

Pedestrians must look out for traffic before crossing a street if damages are to be collected for being struck down by an automobile, according to a decision recently rendered in the appellate court of California. This court reversed a decision of a lower court awarding damages to a pedestrian who admitted on the witness stand that he did not look to his right when he alighted from a street car, nor when he started to walk across the street toward the curb. He had taken eight steps in all from the street car before he heard a taxicab bearing down on him, and then it was too late to avoid injury.

In the decision rendered, the court said that the taxicab driver, of course was much at fault, but since the plaintiff revealed upon cross-examination that he had stepped from a place of safety into a place of danger without first looking in the direction from which he reasonably might expect vehicles to approach, he was guilty of contributory negligence as a matter of law and could not require the taxicab company to pay any damages.

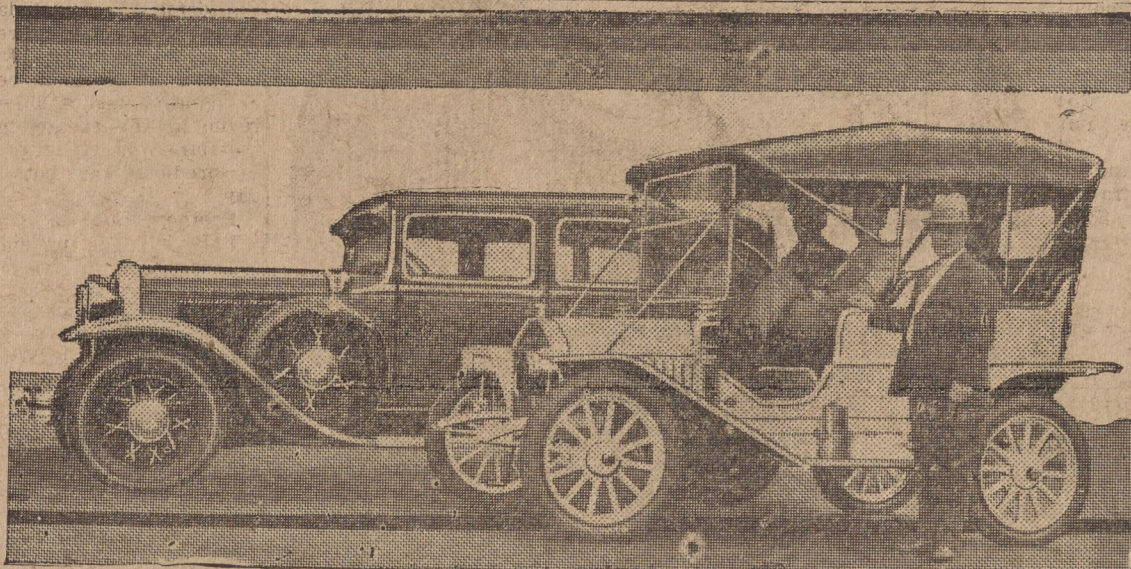

This decision of the higher court coming at this time, says the legal department of the California State Automobile association, is in the nature of a warning to pedestrians.

Clean Windshield Eliminates Glare

If your windshield is dirty the other fellow's headlights always appear to glare, points out the California State Automobile association.

Whether or not this practical education in banking will repay its California sponsors for their time and effort remains to be seen," said Wood. "The system has hardly had its first graduating class. However, it can be readily demonstrated that from whatever source the impetus to save may have come—be it from teachers, bankers or the parents, it has acquired a momentum of its own, and once installed in a school, appears to remain as a permanent part of its practical curriculum."

Long Time No See

HENRY CRENSHAW, an Oregon rancher, found a 1909 model Buick car exhibited at a recent state fair. Upon close examination he found that it was the first car he ever had. In the background is his new 1930 Buick sedan, his twentieth Buick.

Watch Rear Of Car When In Reverse

Many automobile accidents are caused by "backing without looking," but just how these occur is revealed in a study of such accidents over a four-month period reported by the public safety department of the California State Automobile association.

A total of 1,206 backing accidents were investigated and these showed that the largest number from any one cause was backing on highways, with 399 accidents or more than 33 per cent of the total. The next largest number was from backing in private driveways. There were 344 of such accidents, or nearly 29 per cent of the total. Curb parking stood third with 304 smashes or more than 25 per cent of the total.

Other backing accidents occurred in service stations, public markets, parking stations, private clubs, and cars rolling backward on hills after being parked. "Don't back without looking," is suggested as a safe thought for motorists by the public safety department of the motorists' organization.

CHEVROLET SIX LAUDED BY MANY

The presentation of the 1930 Chevrolet Six has had a very enthusiastic reception from the motoring public of Richmond. Members of the firm of Connell and Shumate, Chevrolet dealers of Richmond, have been acclamated the striking beauty and mechanical features of the 1930 Six, according to Connell and Shumate, and interest in what is proclaimed to be the "greatest Chevrolet in Chevrolet history" indicates a banner year for Chevrolet in this territory.

It was declared that the price reduction on the various models ranging from $20 to $60, has caused a wave of interest. Last year Chevrolet manufactured more than 1,350,000 cars and trucks and that this enormous volume made possible savings that are now passed on to the automobile buying public.

"Without a question," members of the firm declare, "this automobile is the finest ever built by Chevrolet Motor company. It incorporates everything a motorist could ask for in a car of even much higher price. The demand for it is going to be a very great one, and production facilities will be taxed to keep pace. We advise those motorists who contemplate purchasing one of these fine automobiles to place their orders immediately. There is no danger of a shortage of cars, but so delightful are these cars to own that a person who delays driving one of them is denying himself one of the greatest pleasures imaginable. Various strongly contrasting color schemes, some bright and others sober in comparison, mark the new 1930 models of Chevrolet. All are in harmony with the type of car and evidence the artistry of the designers.

"The sport roadster is finished in black Duco with Ayres gray moldings. Body trimmings and wire wheels are of Shalimar orange, while seats are gray colored with plain back and tufted seat cushion. Top material is brown and white whipcord on the inside and gray teal on the outside. The back curtain is separable to permit better ventilation."

Information For Motorists Told

Among the things the motorist might remember, warns L. G. Evans, general service manager of the National Automobile club, are:

That a dampened cloth usually is sufficient to rub up chromium plated parts.

That shock absorbers of the hydraulic type generate a lot of heat which causes the supply of liquid in them to diminish.

That looseness in the bumper moorings causes a noise that often is hard to trace.

That anti-friction bearings require lubrication.

That being towed requires a higher type of alertness than when driving the car under its own power.

Spark Plugs Need Attention

Cleaning spark plugs on your car will do no good if the porcelain is cracked, according to the California State Automobile association. An engine miss due to spark plug trouble is generally due to electrical current finding some other path, usually to the outer shell of the plug, and resistance causes a weak spark.

Mark Battery Terminals With X

Battery terminals on your car should be marked with an X to denote positive and a dash or minus sign to denote negative. If they are not marked and you are in doubt, says the California State Automobile association, hold both wires in a cup of water containing salt or soda—butbles will collect on the negative.

The oil in the engine may evaporate but "aeration" is the technical name for the process, states L. G. Evans general service manager for the National Automobile club.

FIRST BUICK FOUND AT FAIR

Oregon furnishes an unusual story of motor cars. Its inception rests in the fact that for years Henry Crenshaw, pioneer business man of Tillamook, has been possessed of a hobby, said hobby being automobiles—more particularly Buicks. In fact, during the past two decades, Crenshaw has owned 20 Buicks, most of which are still being operated by motorists of Oregon, according to C. C. Kratzer, local Buick dealer.

The action starts with the opening of the Tillamook County Fair and with the displaying therein of a 1909 model Buick by R. B. Miller, local dealer. Crenshaw visited the fair and during an inspection of the venerable car made the surprising discovery that it was the identical Buick he had purchased more than 20 years ago in Portland. He lost no time in communicating his discovery to the dealer, being informed by the latter that the car had been secured for display purposes from Cyrus Randall, Tillamook farmer, who had purchased it from Crenshaw in 1910 and had used it continuously since that time.

"My wife and I took our honeymoon in that car," narrated Randall to the Buick's original owner. "We have had the car so long that I have come to look upon it as part of the family. It is almost as old as I am. I remember once, during the days of the old Buick's youth and at a time when motoring conditions were vastly different than today, a skeptic wagered me $50 I could not drive to Portland within one day. I accepted and started off

How To Correct Wheel Shimmy

Wobbling of the front wheels of your car can usually be overcome by taking up slack in steering column ball joints, tie rod king pins, and wheel bearings, according to the California State Automobile association. Raise the front end of car and turn steering wheel to get proper adjustment.

Timing Chain Not Everlasting

The timing chain in your car will not last indefinitely. If you are planning a long trip, consult your service man who can tell you if it should be replaced, advises the California State Automobile association.

over a route covered with hub-deep mud, but the Buick made it—with time to spare."

Automobiles were not popular in the rural districts 20 years ago, according to Crenshaw. He declared that feeling against persons owning motor cars was pronounced at that time, the farmers objecting strenuously to "those noisy contraptions" frightening horses, cattle and other livestock.

Following the unexpected identification of the old car, it was given a minute inspection by experts of the Portland zone of the Buick Motor company, who discovered it still retained its original equipment and parts with the exception of the top, which was recently replaced. Ed. Knox, Portland Buick executive, after driving the ancient Buick around a dirt track, declared that a pacing motorist was required to maintain a speed of 45 miles per hour to keep up with the veteran automobile.

STATE TAX ON GAS APPROVED

A recent decision of the United States Supreme Court held valid California's gasoline tax, the states equitable financing plan for constructing, reconstructing and maintaining its highways.

Motorists who see on every hand evidence of their wisdom in providing adequate funds for highways on a "pay as you go" plan, will welcome this decision. The United States Circuit Court of Appeals first ruled that the gasoline tax was legal. The Supreme Court affirms this decision which is the result of a legal attack by selfish commercial interests. The gasoline tax has been popular with the motorist ever since it was substituted for the inequitable horsepower tax through the efforts of the California State Automobile association, with the cooperation of other groups. Its popularity was further attested when the Automobile association successfully sponsored its substitution for the expensive bond issue method of constructing state highways.

The Supreme Court decision finally clears the path for the department of Public Works to continue its sound and business-like policy of "long-time" planning without fear of interruption. It assures to the motorist completion of the state's splendid system of highways.

Foreign Countries Motor Registration

Motor vehicle registrations outside of the United States have increased ten-fold in twelve years, according to the California State Automobile association.

SHIRES QUILTS AS GREAT BOXER

CHICAGO, Jan. 18.—(U.P.)—Arthur Shires announced his retirement from professional pugilism tonight after Kogesaw Mountain Landis, commissioner of baseball, had ruled that boxing and baseball were incompatible.

In announcing his retirement the White Sox first baseman for the first time expressed some doubt as to his own potentialities in the prize ring.

"I felt that I could become heavyweight champion, of course I would stick to boxing," Shires said. "But under the circumstances I believe I had better stick to baseball so I'll give up the ring."

Talk With Landis

Before ruling that players who took up professional boxing would thereby disqualify themselves as professional baseball players, Landis had a talk with Shires in which he criticized him for the way he had handled himself as "Shires the Great."

"These heroes have gone too far," Landis said. "They have got to stop."

The halt in Shires' boxing career came at the time when his earnings at fights had mounted to $10,000. The first baseman had calculated his potential worth as a pugilistic attraction at $50,000.

The retirement of Shires had no immediate effect upon his suspension by the White Sox which was brought about by his misconduct on the diamond and in the shower rooms during the 1929 season. It is likely, however, that he will use his announcement in an attempt to gain reinstatement with the White Sox.

Fighting Banned

The white haired baseball commissioner, who puts a lot of dynamite into mighty few words, made a fifty word speech to the Great Arthur which forever banned not only Shires but all other baseball players from combining boxing with baseball.

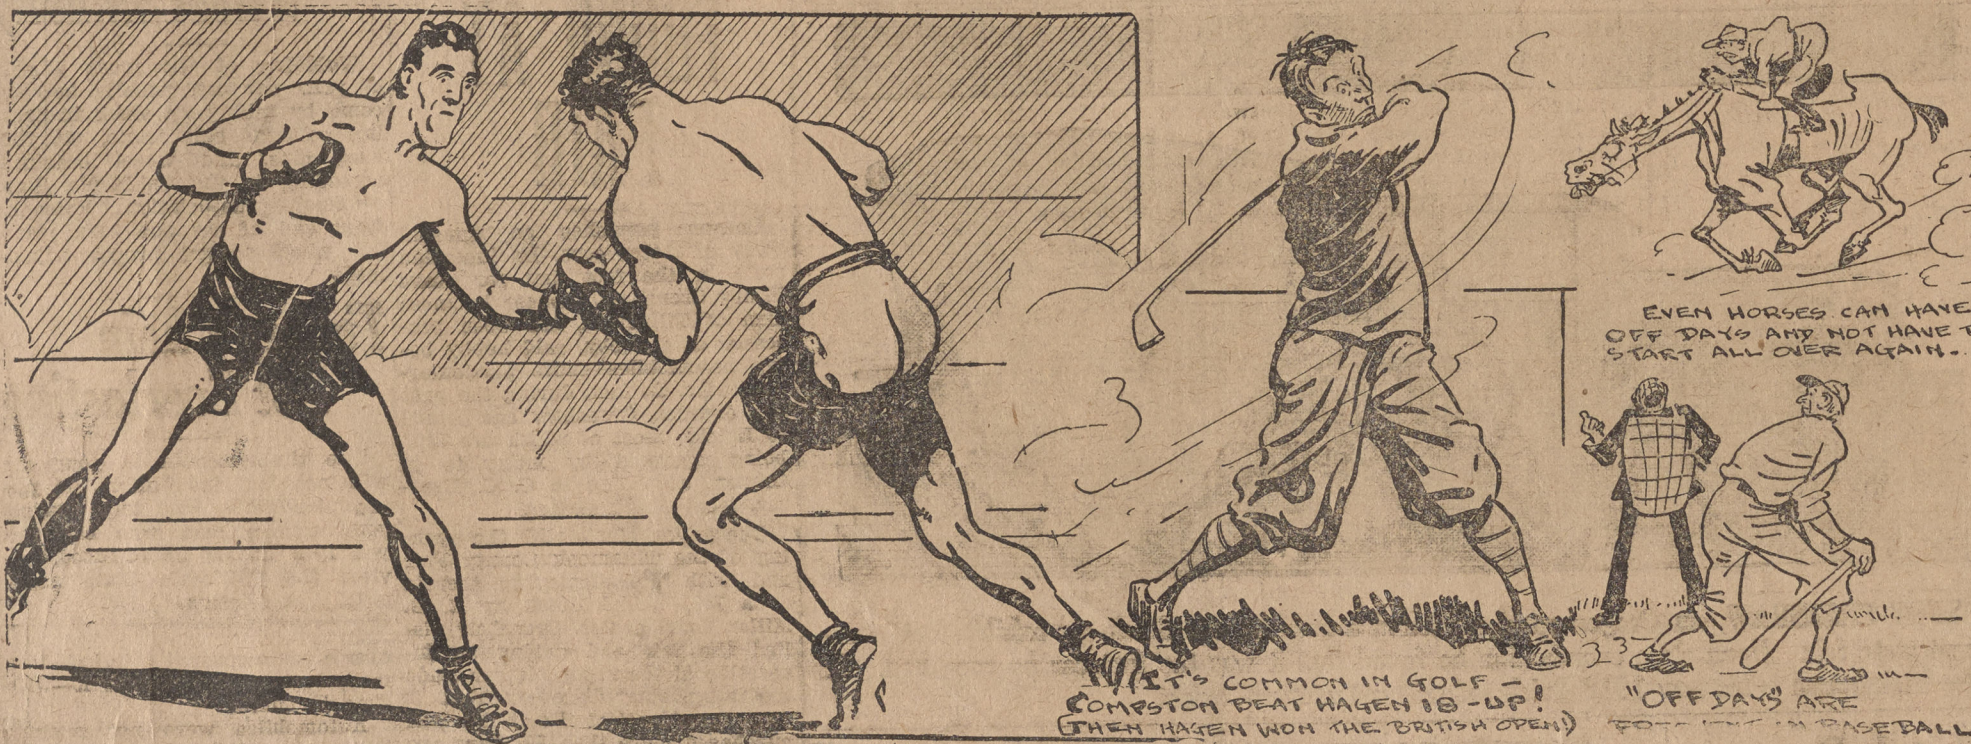

"Hereafter," said Landis, "any person connected with any club of this organization who engages in professional boxing will be regarded as having permanently retired from baseball." The two activities do not mix.

The short speech came after Shires had spent just four minutes with Landis. Landis could be heard through the walls. Once or twice Art tried to interrupt but was "shushed" promptly.

Snow Slides Derailed Train

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 18.—(U.P.)—Regular train service over the Northwestern Pacific between this city and Eureka had been restored tonight, following the derailling early in the day of the south bound Eureka Express, with injury to a mail clerk and two passengers.

In the Bel river canyon, north of Willits, the locomotive struck a boulder, washed onto the track by melting snows.

A relief train took first aid to the injured, none of whom were hurt seriously.

Garfinkles To Play Deciding Game Tomorrow

Garfinkle's will play what may be their league-winning contest tomorrow night against the Ben Malik quintet. As the league now stands, Garfinkle's are one victory in the lead of the Studebakers. If successful tonight the league-leading clothiers will have beyond all doubt captured the championship of the A division of the city league. If so, it will be impossible for the Studebakers to get back into the money, even if they do defeat Garfinkle's on the last night of the schedule. The Garfinkle athletes are generally favored to win against Ben Malik's cagers, who have only one victory to their credit, and that one gained by forfeit. Yet you never can tell.

Furrer's aggregation will tangle with the Oleum Union Oil in the second A game on tomorrow night's card. Mammy's Place who have already captured the title of the B division, will clash with the Mastercraft Roofers at 7 o'clock. The Furrer-Union Oil game will start at 8 o'clock and will be followed by the Garfinkle-Ben Malik contest.

School nurse says
all girls should know thisTALKING to a roomful of high school girls on personal hygiene,
an experienced district nurse said:
"One of the basic rules of health for girls is to keep the system functioning naturally at all times. Normal exercise and diet habits should be encouraged.
But when necessary there's no harm in taking nujol, since it works mechanically and can't disturb the normal functions of any organ of the body.
Particularly with girls, there are times when nujol should always be taken.
Take a spoonful every night for a few days. It's a thoroughly safe and harmless method. It won't cause distress or gas pains or griping."
Nujol is different from any other substance. It contains no drugs or medicine. It can be taken safely no matter how you are feeling because it is so pure and harmless, and works so easily. Every woman should keep a bottle on hand. Every druggist has this remarkable substance. Get the genuine.

RIOT FELON ASKS EARLY HANGING

FOLSOM PRISON, Jan. 18.—UP—Albert Stewart, the only leader of the 1927 Folsom prison riots now alive, was in the death cell tonight hoping that he will soon follow his five riot comrades in death.

Five of the six leaders of the bloody riot were executed this month. Eugene Crosby, the fifth, being hanged yesterday. Stewart, the man condemned by his prison companions because he turned state's evidence, is under death sentence also but a court has not set the execution date.

Writing to Superior Judge Malcolm Glenn of Sacramento, Stewart asked that the execution date be set as soon as possible because "anything is better than this living death."

It is generally agreed at Folsom that Stewart has little to live for. He is shunned by all convicts and Crosby, shortly before he was executed, wrote a poem which likened Stewart to Judas and taunted him for him taking his own life as Judas did. Tony Brown and Walter Burke, two of the riot leaders who were executed earlier this month, had vowed to kill Stewart and attempted to do so but guards stopped them.

All five of the riot leaders, Brown, Burke, Crosby, Roy Stokes and James Gregg died without benefit of clergy, having entered a pact to have nothing to do with the prison chaplain.

NEW MACHINE DRIES VICTORS IN HOUSE BATTLE

Articles of incorporation for the formation of a company to be known as the Paragon Machine Tool and Die Works, to be located in Richmond, were filed with the county clerk recently. The new company has incorporated with a capital of $50,000, with L. W. Evans, A. De Soto, S. Belaz and H. K. Watchers as incorporators. The plant will be located at No. 2 Eighteenth street and as soon as all arrangements are completed, operations will be started.

When in complete operation, the new company will construct dies, surgical instruments, metal containers, washing machines and various kinds of machinery.

Leo Marcollo, Richmond attorney, has handled all legal work for the new corporation. Evans, who was for many years superintendent of the Republic Steel Package plant, will head the new firm.

An amendment was made by Representative Palmisano, Democrat, Maryland, to prevent employment by prohibition units of anyone convicted of a felony.

Wets Continue. Defeated on every side, the wets still would not stop, but turned their attention to oratory.

Representative Clancy, Republican, Michigan, made a bitter attack on the anti-saloon league, declaring that organization was "screaming for more blood, more killings and more cruel and unusual punishment."

Clancy criticized Dr. Scott F. McBride of the league for saying "The anti-saloon league was born of God, it has been led by Him and we will fight on while He leads." Clancy said McBride did "not show any written message from God to prove it."

Prisons Crowded. "Our federal prisons are overcrowded mainly with prohibition law offenders," he added. "Twenty-five hundred feet away from Detroit is Canada, which has thrown off prohibition. There the jails and the prisons are practically empty as compared with the United States."

Senate wets and dries have agreed to a new vote on prohibition soon after the tariff bill is out of the way.

Republican floor leader Watson agreed with such dry republican leaders as Borah of Idaho and Jones of Washington in welcoming a vote on the Blaine resolution proposing repeal.

A check by the United Press indicated that Blaine, Republican, Wisconsin, could not hope for more than 20 votes, while dries predicted he would not get more than eight.

Senator Sheppard, Democrat, of Texas, announced he would press for action on his bill to make the buyer of liquor equally guilty with the seller, despite the refusal of Secretary of Treasury Mellon to endorse the measure.

Sheppard plans to give hearings on the measure in the judiciary committee room after February 1. REFERENDUM FAVORED BY FLOOR LEADER

WASHINGTON, Jan. 18.—(UP)—Senate Republican floor leader J. E. Watson of Indiana said here today he favored a referendum on prohibition, to be conducted by the individual states.

Watson is generally known as a dry, but he is not prominently identified with any organized movement, and his position in the Senate and the Republican party was regarded here as giving considerable significance to his suggestion.

Motorist Fined $200 After Fight With Traffic Head

MARTINEZ, Jan. 18.—Orran Patton, 46, of Martinez, was today sentenced to serve 200 days in the county jail by Justice of the Peace Frank Glass when he failed to pay a fine of $200 on a reckless driving charge.

Patton was arrested last night, after an alleged fight with Traffic Captain George Belon. According to Belon, his attention was called by a passing motorist to Patton's erratic driving.

Belon claims that when he came upon Patton's car ditched in the Mountain View district, Patton showed fight and refused to submit to arrest. When Belon drew his club, Patton is alleged to have wrestled it from the captain and fled.

Patton stopped when Belon drew his gun and threatened to fire.

RICHMOND TO BE VISITED BY WHALE

The largest and most unusual visitor ever seen in Richmond will arrive over the Southern Pacific lines early Tuesday morning in a specially constructed steel railroad car, which will be parked on the siding just in front of the S. P. Depot at Sixteenth street and Macdonald avenue.

This stranger will be none other than the famous San Clemente whale and its 18 foot six thousand pound baby whale, now on a transcontinental tour, the former creature showing no signs of the terrific battle that preceded her capture recently off the southern California coast.

The San Clemente whale is more than 55 feet long and tips the scales at a little over 65 tons, while her waist measure is a perfect 30 (feet). The gigantic sea mammal and her small size infant, both perfectly preserved by the modern art of embalming, and lifelike in appearance, lies under a heavy glass case giving visitors an opportunity to view the great carcass in detail at close range.

Back of the appearance of the whale in Richmond is a thrilling story of one of the most dramatic battles ever staged between a whaling crew and one of the ocean mammoths. The whale was captured in September of last year near the island of San Clemente.

When the man in the lookout on the whaling boat Hercules sighted the big mammal, it was seen drifting on the surface of the sunny waters, its great bulk rolling in the waves like some big trans-Pacific liner turned turtle.

Drifting within range, the gunner of the whaling boat took careful aim and fired the gun which propelled a harpoon deep into the body of the whale. Then something went wrong. The bomb enclosed in the head of the harpoon failed to explode and there was a mighty surge of water as the whale plunged headlong on a mile deep dive, trailing the harpoon rope after him.

Efforts to check the descent of the whale, dropping into the lower depths of the sea like some railroad locomotive derailed on a bridge, were unavailing for a time. The windlass roared as the rope began to smoke from the friction.

Just when it seemed that the rope must part and give the wounded whale her freedom, the rope stopped and the crew began to reel in the rope, foot by foot as the whale yielded to the tug. Suddenly he plunged again and the battle was renewed.

The contest raged for several hours, but in the end the whale was brought to the surface again. Another shot was fired and this time the bomb exploded, killing the big mother whale instantly.

Tours Country. When the whale was lifted at Long Beach by means of a 90-ton crane it was found to be such a splendid specimen of the finback variety, that the project of a transcontinental exhibition tour was decided upon.

An idea of the size of the San Clemente whale can be gained from the statement that the heart when removed in connection with the embalming process, was found to weigh 1268 pounds. The tongue that rested between the gigantic jaws of the sea monster, which also had to be removed and replaced, weighed 500 pounds.

Scientific interest has been aroused by the whale and its baby, and the tour has revived discussion of many things about the big sea mammal that have challenged the curiosity of thousands of students of natural history. One of the things science has never been able to determine or clearly trace is the origin of the whale or to understand some of its habits and physical characteristics.

A $1.25 to Rid Your Home of Moths May Save You Hundreds of Dollars.

MORTEMOTH KILLS MOTHS

The gas from Mortemoth crystals not only protects your furniture for a long time, but contact with it kills all moths, their eggs and their dangerous larvae in furniture which is already infested.

The proper method of using Mortemoth crystals is to tie them in small sacks, and to place these sacks down in the channel of the piece, as deeply as possible, behind the cushions, so that, upon expansion, the gas will spread and fill the spring units in the back and in the bottom of the piece.

When the sacks are empty, fill them again.

Unborn Child Charges Fail

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 18.—UP—California's first case involving the new law which holds that a baby conceived but not yet born is a minor child and entitled to support, today was referred to the probation department by Police Judge Sylvain Lazarus.

The action was taken when charges of failing to support an unborn child filed against Earl Williams, a cook, by his wife Ethel, were heard.

They then went to the home of George Warrenburg, on Twenty-sixth street. This home was decorated to represent Brazil.

Persia was the next point of call. J. H. Plate's home on Twelfth street was the scene of the visit.

The group then concluded its tour by visiting the "United States" at the home of Theodore Kaphan, 1911 Gaynor avenue. This was the first social meet-
